SECTION 3: DEGREE PROGRAMS ORGANIZED BY FIELD

INVENTORY OF PROGRAM OFFERINGS AT NEW JERSEY INSTITUTIONS OF HIGHER EDUCATION

OVERVIEW:

This edition of the degree program inventory is current as of January 18, 2001. It is published in one volume, organized in three sections.

Section 1 contains reference tables on various classification systems for the academic programs and awards offered by New Jersey colleges and universities and for the institutions themselves. It also includes tallies, by institutional sector, of the numbers of degree programs by degree level and by broad program category.

Section 2 organizes the offerings by institution; Section 3 organizes the listings by broad program category.

TYPES OF OFFERINGS:

The Commission on Higher Education maintains and updates computerized files from which inventory listings are produced. The inventory is updated monthly based on reviews or approvals by the Presidents' Council, the Commission on Higher Education, and actions by institutional boards of trustees.¹ Listings for all institutions are shown in college catalogues and, where applicable, certified by the Department of Military and Veterans Affairs.²

Only full degree or certificate programs, which terminate in formal awards conferred by an institution of higher education are included.

The inventory does not include a comprehensive list of collegiate teacher preparation programs. Such offerings are approved by the NJ Department of Education, which grants teaching certificates to students completing prescribed course sequences. In some instances these curricula correspond to listings in this inventory, but colleges also offer teacher training programs that are not degree programs. A college's catalogue would list all the teacher training opportunities available at that institution.

CLASSIFICATION OF MAJOR FIELDS:

All programs are coded according to the federal "Classification of Instructional Programs" (CIP), a standardized coding scheme for reporting academic program data (such as enrollments and degrees conferred). There are 48 broad CIP areas, each denoted by the first two digits of the four- and six-digit codes. This taxonomy³ thus permits aggregation and analysis at three levels of detail: the six-digit code corresponds to a program's specific focus, while the first four digits represent a more general emphasis, and the first two, an even broader programmatic classification.

¹ Independent institutions founded after April 1, 1887, and all public colleges and universities, must secure authorization to offer degrees/programs; institutional boards of trustees may authorize changes in names (but not the substance) of programs. Neither such approval is required for the following independent colleges and universities: Centenary College, Drew University, Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton University, Saint Peter's College, Seton Hall University, and Stevens Institute of Technology.

² All degree programs at any institution of higher education (public or independent, regardless of charter date) that seeks to offer veterans training under the G.I. Bill must be certified by the Department of Military and Veterans Affairs.

³ U.S. Department of Education, National Center for Education Statistics, A Classification of Instructional Programs, 1990 edition. Reference Table F, which begins on page x, lists all the CIP categories/codes except those reserved for consumer education; industrial arts; leisure and personal improvement programs (including basic skills), which usually do not entail college-level coursework; and R.O.T.C. programs. The New Jersey higher education system does not necessarily offer collegiate study in every category shown in Table F.

For example, consider the specific category called “Entomology”, coded 260702:

- 1) The first two digits (26) signify the broad “Life Sciences” area.
- 2) The second two digits (07) further identify the program grouping, in this case, “Zoology” (2607).
- 3) The last two digits (02) assign the program to the most specific category, “Entomology” (260702), one field of study under the “Zoology” group in the broad “Life Sciences” area.

Section 2:

Section 2 of the inventory lists, for each New Jersey institution of higher education, the degree programs it offers, arranged as follows:

- 1) By degree level, from lowest, pre-associate, to highest first-professional. (Most institutions offer programs at only one or two levels.)
- 2) All full degree programs are listed, along with the program’s specific degree (such as B.A., M.A., etc.). For instance, the list for a college with both bachelor’s and master’s programs would have two groups of offerings, in this order: bachelor’s degree programs, master’s degree programs.
- 3) Alphabetically, within each set of degrees (as described above); shown with each entry is the appropriate four-digit CIP group name and the full six-digit CIP code.

Section 3:

Section 3 of the inventory lists, for each broad (two-digit) area, the New Jersey institution(s) offering degree programs in the various fields, arranged as follows:

- 1) For each four-digit CIP code group of programs, the colleges’ offerings are listed in the degree-level order described in (1) and (2) above for Volume I.
- 2) Within each such set of offerings, the institutions are listed alphabetically.
